Boston's Newest Entrepreneurship Hub

Opening: October 19, 2026

Location: 141 Tremont Street, Boston
(across from Boston Common)

Why This Is News

- Boston's first free entrepreneurship hub for underserved entrepreneurs
- Located across from Boston Common
- Builds on LCR's 25-year BizGrow program serving 2,000+ entrepreneurs annually
- Designed to expand economic opportunity while helping revitalize downtown Boston

At a Glance

BizGrow Central is a first-of-its-kind entrepreneurship hub bringing together legal services, business advising, mentorship, technology, collaborative workspace, and networking opportunities for entrepreneurs from underserved communities—all under one roof, and all for free.

Why It Matters

Boston has incubators, accelerators, and coworking spaces. But until now, it has never had a free entrepreneurship hub designed specifically for underserved entrepreneurs. BizGrow Central will also help revitalize downtown Boston by bringing new energy, foot traffic, and economic activity to the city's core.

Leadership Quote

"Economic opportunity is a civil rights issue. BizGrow Central gives entrepreneurs not just advice, but a community, a workspace, and a network that can help turn an idea into a thriving business."

— Priya Lane, BizGrow Director
Lawyers for Civil Rights

"Entrepreneurship is one of the most powerful pathways to economic mobility. BizGrow Central is designed to make that pathway more accessible for everyone."

— Roz Freeman Mish, Senior Entrepreneurship Manager
Lawyers for Civil Rights

"We defend what previous generations fought so hard to build. And we build what the next generation deserves to inherit. One of the most powerful civil rights strategies is helping people build something they own. Their own business. Their own future. Their generational wealth."

— Iván Espinoza-Madrigal, Executive Director
